THIS IS A DREAM

Marco Ferrari

I was born in 1979 and currently live in Milan, where I work as a photographer and graphic designer.

My passion for photography began during childhood, inspired by my father's dedication to the darkroom, where he spent countless hours. After studying graphic design, I shifted my focus to the industrial and scientific domains, striving to unveil the beauty and complexity of advanced machinery and cutting-edge technology.

Guided by an insatiable curiosity, I continually explore artistic photography through personal projects.

As a graphic designer, I specialize in projects that connect the worlds of science and luxury publishing.
